Hydrogels in pharmaceutical formulations ScienceDirect

January 18th, 2019 - In Eq 2  $\hat{\mu}_1$  is the chemical potential of the solvent in the polymer gel and  $\hat{\mu}_1^0$  is the chemical potential of the pure solvent At equilibrium the difference between the chemical potentials of the solvent outside and inside the gel must be zero Therefore the changes of the chemical potential due to mixing and elastic forces must balance each other

Electroactive polymers Wikipedia

January 17th, 2019 - Electroactive polymers or EAPs are polymers that exhibit a change in size or shape when stimulated by an electric field The most common applications of this type of material are in actuators and sensors A typical characteristic property of an EAP is that they will undergo a large amount of deformation while sustaining large forces The majority of historic actuators are made of ceramic

Memristor Wikipedia

January 19th, 2019 - One of the resulting properties of memristors and memristive systems is the existence of a pinched hysteresis effect For a current controlled memristive system the input  $u(t)$  is the current  $i(t)$  the output  $y(t)$  is the voltage  $v(t)$  and the slope of the curve represents the electrical resistance The change in slope of the pinched hysteresis curves demonstrates switching between different
